AT THE COUNTER

Made for the way you sell

Bill a one-hour consultation at the front desk, a commercial case with the court, case number and next hearing on the line, or this month's retainer for a company client. Partner and associate hours go on the same invoice, court fees paid for the client are passed on at cost, and every case, retainer and contract follows on the Matters board until it is closed.

Consultations at the desk

Thirty-minute, one-hour and video consultations and written opinions, billed with the client's name and the lawyer who advised.

Cases with court and hearing

Lawsuits, labour, commercial and family cases, appeals and enforcement, each line carrying the court, case number, opposing party and next hearing.

Monthly and yearly retainers

Company counsel retainers billed on account each month, with the start and end of the retainer on the invoice.

Hourly billing by role

Partner, senior associate, associate and paralegal hours at their own rates against the client's matter number.

Court fees passed on at cost

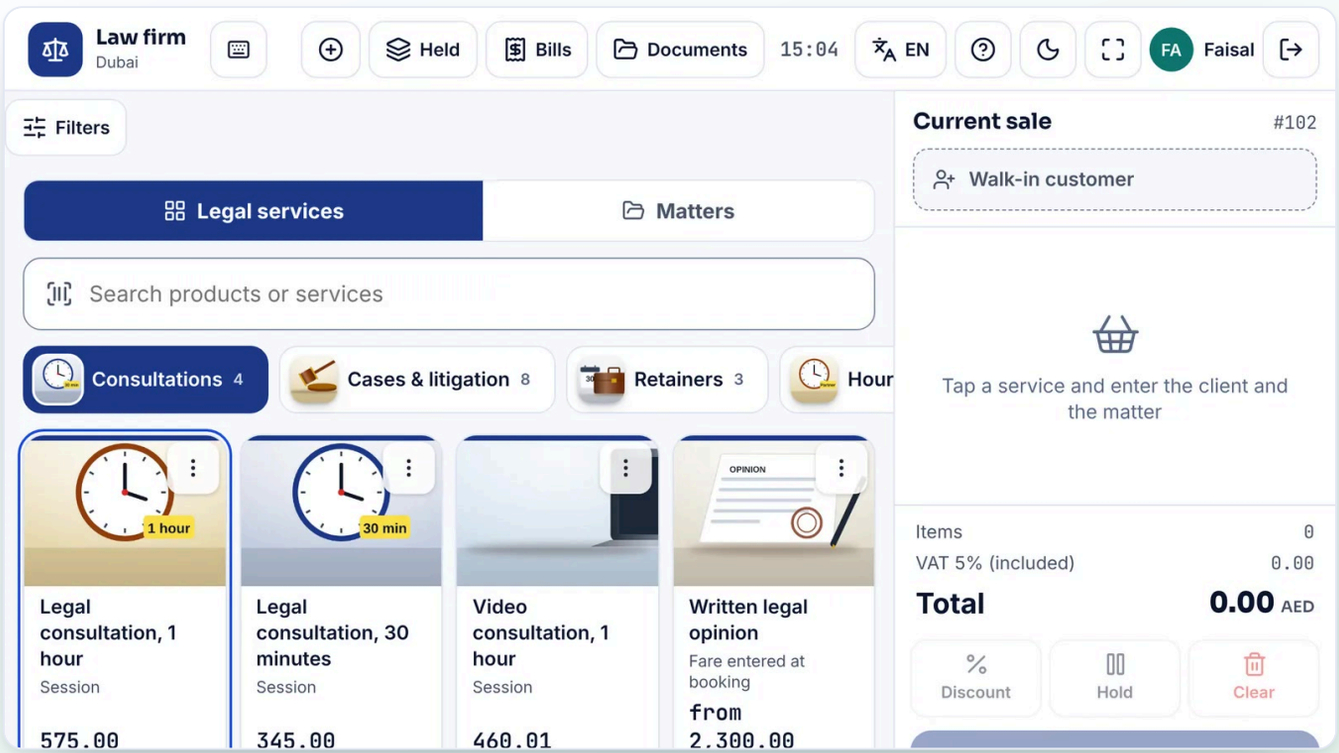

Court, notary, expert and translation fees paid for the client go on the invoice without VAT, apart from the firm's fees.

Matters board

Every billed case, retainer, contract and company job moves from opened to in progress, judgment or done, and closed.

Ideal for

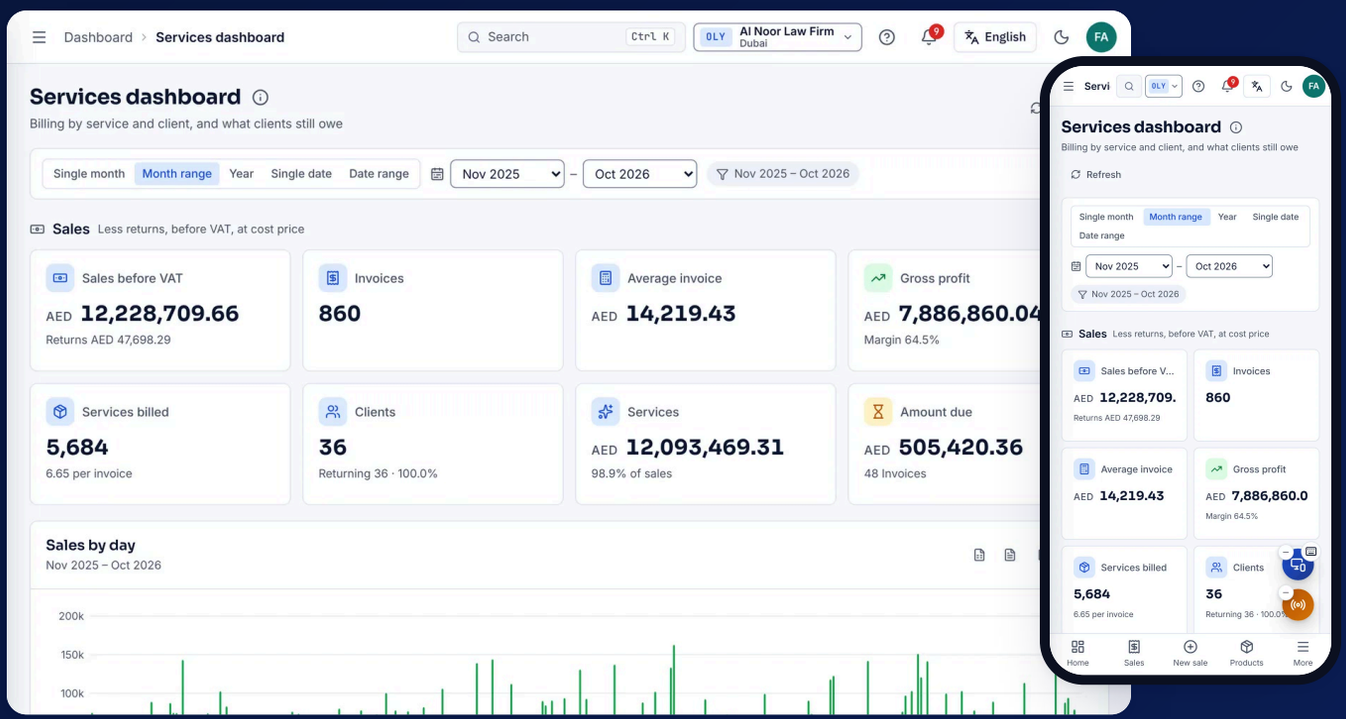

- Law firms and advocates
- Legal consultants and in-house counsel services
- Debt collection and labour case offices
- Company formation and notary service offices

Questions owners ask

Can I bill a company client every month for a retainer?
Yes. Bill the month on account with the retainer period on the line; the invoices build up on the client's statement and ageing.

How are court fees paid for the client handled?
Use the Court fees & disbursements tab: type the amount paid and it goes on the invoice at cost, without VAT, next to the firm's own fees.
